Newark Charter

BULLYING

A student is being bullied when he or she is exposed repeatedly and over time, to negative actions on the part of one or more students. A negative action occurs when a person knowingly inflicts, or attempts to inflict, physical or emotional injury or discomfort upon another person. Isolated bullying types of behavior will be handled through parent contact and demerits being issued.

According to state law and Department of Education regulations, when a situation rises to bullying, as defined above, it must be treated as a criminal offense and must be reported to the appropriate authorities. The student will also be required to appear before the Review Board. (See Review Board)

Acts of bullying rarely occur unless there is an audience to watch, especially when the bully feels powerful by onlookers who laugh, encourage, or just "look the other way" out of fear. The school actively trains potential bystanders on what they should do intervene and report acts of bullying. There is no excuse for watching a fellow student get harmed and do nothing.

Therefore, when it is learned that a student has witnessed an act of bullying, and has not done anything to intervene or report it, then that bystander may be issued a demerit and parent notification will be made.

CYBERBULLYING

Neither the school's network nor the broader Internet (whether accessed on campus or off campus, either during or after school hours) may be used for the purpose of harassment. All forms of harassment in cyberspace, often called cyberbullying, are unacceptable.

Cyberbullying includes, but is not limited to, the following misuses of technology: harassing, teasing, intimidating, threatening, or terrorizing another person by sending or posting inappropriate and hurtful e-mail messages, instant messages (including text messages), or Web site postings (including blogs). Often the author (sender or poster) of the inappropriate material is disguised (logged on) as someone else. Students who feel that they have been the victims of such misuses of technology should not erase the offending material from the system. They should print a copy of the material and immediately report the incident to the assistant principal. All reports of harassment in cyberspace will be investigated fully. Sanctions may include, but are not limited to, the loss of computer privileges, demerits, suspension, or review board hearing.
